Mrs. Lieberman served luncheon. The next dance will be given on the first Tuesday evening after Easter. There was but one distressing incident beyond the usual round of enjoyment, which, owing to the approaching cold wave and other unfortuitous circumstances, was very unpleasant to the two suffering individuals, who shall be nameless. It appears that while the festivities were in progress some of their enthusiastic friends—and suspicion falls upon the weaker sex, conceived the idea, in the spirit of playfulness, of entering the dressing room at a favorable moment, wherein they carefully filled the men's shoes with water, with successful results. It is hardly necessary to say that the young gentlemen had some difficulty in maintaining their suave society front when preparing to go home.

THE LAST BEFORE LENT.

MR. AND MRS. WARWICK AND MISS KARTHAUS RECEIVE.

An Elegant Reception at the Head of Main Street Hill—The Germania Orchestra's Delightful Music — The Party Gowns—The Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Warrington Warwick and Miss Karthaus united in giving a large company last evening at the home of Congressman-elect and Mrs. Warwick, who are now in the more genial climate of Southern California. In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Warwick and Miss Karthaus, white frocked and flaxen haired Master John, Mrs. Captain Williams, and the guests of the hosts, Miss Williams, Miss Gillespie, and Miss McCallam.

Canvas covered the carpet of the long double drawing room, and masses of plants and flowers fairly hid the mantels. Flowers too, there were on the other side of the house, where in one corner, the bowl of frozen punch proved a grateful refreshment to those who acted upon the hint contained in the invitations, "dancing at 10 o'clock." Superb pearl de jardin roses filled the house with odor, and brightened up odd corners everywhere. Smilax was here and there and everywhere, and the whole atmosphere was that of comfort and good cheer.

A wall of stately palms divided the hall in two, and in the space thus set apart the Germania orchestra, of Cleveland, furnished such music that the temptation to dance was offset by the desire to listen. The music was the wonder and delight of the evening. During the reception, and during a dancing intermission, a programme of general selections was played which gave the orchestra opportunity to manifest its ability. All who remained late had also the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Magee and Miss Gillespie, Mrs. Warwick and Mrs. Pease, each of whom is a gifted pianiste.

The long stair case—years ago dedicated to such pleasant purposes, answered as a gallery and was occupied all evening, by those who watched as they listened, to the musicians below.

The form of invitation permitted visitors to come and go, most of the young guests needing no pressure to remain until long after the clock struck 2. The roomy house during the early evening hours was completely filled, but as the night advanced people gradually withdrew, so that at no time was there any discomfort on account of the number present. After the large dining room in which supper was served, had been emptied of tables and chairs, it made, with the drawing rooms, an excellent suite of apartments for dancing, which with such fascinating music, was much more general than usual, upon such occasions.

The supper served was in charge of Mr. Bayliss. The three courses included patties, salad, croquettes and sandwiches, and a number of dainty trifles which made the affair complete, as it certainly was, not only in this respect, but in all others.

The approaching sober season was an incentive to everybody to look and do their best. Among the gowns: Mrs. Warwick, green challie and white lace, very simple and very becoming; Miss Karthous, black and white striped moire; Mrs. Pease, yellow and black muslin du soie; Miss Gillipsie, pink net and silk; Miss McCallam, white silk; Mrs. C. L. Magee, elegant white brocade, en train, point lace diamond ornaments; Mrs. Welty, green silk; Mrs. Cook, black silk and steel ornaments; Mrs. Wright, a white wedding dress; Mrs. Williams, black brocade and steel; Miss Williams, pink silk; Miss Hartzell, light blue crepe du chine; Miss Frease, pink satin; Mrs. Shanafelt, yellow brocade; Miss Lewis, black lace; Miss Jennie Graham, pink silk; Miss Fannie Graham, black net; Mrs. McClymonds, black silk, Mrs. C. M. Russell, white brocade silk; Mrs. Baldwin, white lace and silk; Miss Laura Russell, blue crepe du chine; Miss Harriet Russell, yellow crepe du chine; Miss Jessie Russell, black lace; Mrs. Arnold, white net; Miss Upham, blue and white china silk.

The out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Magee, Miss Gillespie, Miss McCallam, Messrs. George Von Bonnhurst and Edouard de Lassus, of Pittsburg; Messrs. Pfouts and Charles A. Ricks, of Cleveland; Miss Frick, of Wooster; Miss Lewis, of Connecticut; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Wright, of Akron; Mr. W. A. Ulman, of Pueblo, Col.; Miss Fannie Graham, of Philadelphia; Mrs. W. S. Williams, Mrs. Ely, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Shanafelt, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Welty, Misses Williams, Bessie Frease, Grace Hartzell, Jennie Graham, Messrs. John Wells, Harry Frease, E. S. Raff, Ralph Ambler, Lew Bockius, Fred and Rob Fast, Will Kuhns, Norman and Wade Chance, of Canton,

"Alliance money," says The Review, quoting from THE INDEPENDENT, "built the Alliance memorial hall, and we don't propose to pay any further taxes for Canton's benefit"

Captain Cutler's canal argument bristles with good points. We incline to forgetfulness of the silent influence of the froggy old Ohio, but it seems that it influences freight rates just the same.

Councilman John Leu, THE INDEPENDENT salutes you! In presenting a resolution calling for regulation police uniforms, you did well. When the manly bosoms of the patrolmen heave under blue cloth and brass buttons, it will be possible to point with pride to "the finest."

The editor of the Glasgow News, in his paper of Dec. 13, a copy of which has reached Massillon, was very fierce in his discussion of the McKinley law. "It is a drag on science," he cries, and he goes on with an interminable flow of per centages, to show how science is being dragged. He is distressed about the duty on "raddle," of which we have plenty in this country. "Nobody but an ignorant barbarian," says this Scotchman, "would have taxed it at all." Now the trouble with the able journalist is not that science is being dragged, but that British shop keepers are having a hard time of it. This same "ignorant barbarian" of ours is quite good enough for the plain American, who believes in looking after his own fireside first, and this same McKinley is soon to be elected governor of Ohio and some time in the future President of the United States.

The reputation of County Commissioner J. Schmachtenberger for monumental stupidity and profound ignorance, ought to go thundering down the corridors of time. In the Canton Repository of last night, he says:

"You can put me down as an advocate of the action of the county commissioners in entering into the contract with the city for sewer priviliges, the price to be paid being $10.000. This amount may appear high, but not when it is known that the county paid annually $1,200 to have the cesspools cleaned at the court house."

THE INDEPENDENT does not desire to argue the point. In the minds of the tax-payers of Stark county the question has been settled, and the temporary injunction gives them the whip hand. THE INDEPENDENT merely wishes to say in its mildest mannered way, that any man who draws pay from the treasury for the purpose of expending $10,000 of Stark county money, for that which he might have for $632—well to use the chaste language of Captain Asa Cutler, he should be chained to a big stone and dumped in some deep water, or sent to a lunatic asylum. The language should be understood as figurative.

CAPTAIN CUTLER ON CANALS.

He Lets Drive at Senator Howells and His Forthcoming Bill.

Captain Asa Cutler, who lays on to Senator Howells, and spares not, is, as he says, "an old water dog." He has been "a canaler" for many years, and is at the present time the owner of craft plying on the waters of the still Ohio. The captain writes:

MR. EDITOR.—Here are some things for the reflection of the author of a bill for the sale of the canals of Ohio, which means their abandonment, by an old water dog of observation not education: Some years since, when the Willow Bank coal mine was paying seventy five cents per ton freight to Cleveland by canal and rail, and the coal was pretty well exhausted in the bank, the high water carried away the trestle across the river to the canal. The railroad men thought the coal company would not rebuild the trestle for the amount of coal in the bank, and they put the freight to $1 06 per ton. But the coal company rebuilt the trestle and the railroad put the freight at 75 cents before the trestle was done, and I believe there never was a load of coal shipped over it. About the same time Canton parties were paying $2.50 to $3.00 per thousand on lumber they shipped by canal to Massillon and reshipped by rail and wagon to Canton; then the railroad put the freight down so that it would not bear reshipping, and I was informed a few months since by a dealer that the freight then was from $1.40 to $1.80 per thousand from Cleveland. The freight here at the same time and at the present is $1 per thousand. If the author of the above bill thinks he is serving the best interests of the people, which it is his duty to do, by passing the bill and thereby putting the people more fully at the mercy of the railroads, it would be for the interest of the people to chain him to a big stone and drop him in some deep water or send him to a lunatic asylum. More anon. Water dog not railroad toad puffed up with money or gas!

ASA CUTLER.

The Horse Protective Society.

The annual meeting of the Stark and Wayne County Horse Protective Society is being held this afternoon, in the G. A. R. hall, with President N. E. Moffitt in the chair. Important changes are being made in the regulations of the society, among them one, reducing the insurance on stolen horses from $250 to $200. M. Clay of Jackson township, and C. A. Krider of Canton township, were made directors. The society has now been in existence for six years, and but two horses have been stolen from members during that time.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, David Murray; vice president, N. E Moffitt; secretary, Robert A. Pinn; assistant secretary, Chas. A. Krider; treasurer, Jacob Christman; marshal, J. L. McCoy, Wayne county; executive board, S. B. Sterns, J. M. Fiscus, J. R. Byers; Byers, three years; Sterns, two years, Fiscus, one year.

Fear for Dear Old "Uncle Billy."

Special Dispatch to The Independent.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—General Sherman is not so well this morning. The family is very anxious. The illness in itself is not so dangerous, but the great age of the general and the fact that he has not been well for some weeks, excites fear that his heavy cold will degenerate into pneumonia.

Mayor's Court.

Incorrect information was obtained yesterday with regard to the stealing of money from John Pletch. As the paragraph read, the money, appeared to have been stolen by Mr. Pletch, when in fact he it was who lost the amount stated, which is supposed to have been taken by Charles McDaniel. Tom McDaniel had nothing to do with the case. The error is regretted and the correction gladly made.

Julius Roup has returned to the city from which he was banished months ago by the late Mayor Frantz.

Policemen Bitterman and Jacobs, of Canton, are in the city.

A Sporting Event.

A wrestling match will take place at Jacob Boyd's place, at Boss Smith's Corners, on February 17, between Frank Wagner, of the Corners, and Dick Aston, of Youngstown Hill, for a purse of twenty dollars.

In Justice's Court.

Charles Schaffert has brought suit against Minnie Hudson, to receive $18,-60, alleged to have been advanced to her at stated times.

Two new lathes, one for the erecting room, or as it is popularly known "Music Hall," and the other for the engine and machine department have arrived.

The improvements commenced last fall in the shops of Russell & Co., are still continuing. This morning work was commenced on the office of Assistant Superintendent Heggem in the northeast corner of the front building, also in the drafting room, and when completed will be one of the cosiest and best arranged aparments about the works. More will be said about it when completed.

The new check or time system which was inaugurated last April as a venture, has met with such satisfaction with the men and the firm that permanent boxes have been arranged in the new room recently fitted up and known as Mr. Ed Pease's headquarters for printed matter, which is just inside the entrance. It is easily manipulated and makes the boys scramble as soon as the whistle sounds.

Selecting five Cities and therefrom fixing the Rates and Regulations under which the Massillon Water Company shall charge for Water furnished to the Citizens of Massillon under its Contract:

Be it Resolved by the Council of the City of Massillon, Ohio, That whereas, the water rates for the consumers using water from the Massillon Water company, have never been fixed by any council of this city, as provided by the contract between the Massillon Water company and the city of Massillon, Ohio; and whereas, This council has ascertained the official population of the following cities, to wit:

East Liverpool	10,947
Bellaire	9,901
Ironton	10,992
Chillicothe	11,256
Lancaster	8,297

In the State of Ohio, having nearly the same population as Massillon, to wit, 10,068, and that they have similar plants and system of water works as that owned by the Massillon Water company as provided in the contract; and whereas, The water committee of this council has visited said cities; and whereas, The Massillon Water company has had notice of the pendency, and was present by W. A. Lynch and H. F. Dunham, during all the investigation of this matter, and has had the opportunity to be heard on all questions appertaining thereto; and whereas, This council has ascertained the rates and regulations under which water is furnished consumers in said cities and determined and fixed the average regulations and rates thereof as follows:

REGULATIONS.

The following rules and regulations shall be considered part of a contract with every person who uses the water supplied by the Massillon Water Company:

1. Applications for water must be made at the office of the Water company on forms prepared for that purpose, and must state fully and truly all purposes for which the water is to be used. All applications must be signed by the owner of the premises to be supplied or by his duly authorized agent.

2. No person but the authorized agents of the Water company, acting under the directions of the proper officers, will be permitted to tap or make any connections of the pipes of the Water company.

3. All persons taking water must provide a stop and waste cock properly located inside the building, and have the pipe so arranged that water can be drawn from them in case of danger from frost. They must keep their fixtures from freezing and in good repair.

4. No plumber or other person except the Superintendent of the Water Works or his duly authorized agent shall turn water to any premises; water will not be turned into sewer pipes or connections unless the same is satisfactory to the Superintendent of the Water company.

5. No additions to or alterations in any of the pipes or fixtures shall be made until application for permission to make such alterations has been made at the office of the Water company, and a written permit given by the Superintendent. An annual inspection of all pipes and fixtures will be made; if any fixtures have been added or any use made of the water for which a written permit has not been given, a charge for such additional fixtures or uses shall be made for the entire preceding year.

6. No owner or tenant of any premises supplied with water by the works will be permitted to supply water from his fixtures to other persons or families, or leave his fixtures in such condition that other parties can obtain water therefrom.

7. The season for the use of water for street or lawn sprinklers or yard fountains begins April 1 and ends November 1. The rate given for these uses in the schedule of rates is for this period only; the company reserves the right to shut off the water from November 1st to April 1st from all consumers who take water for sprinkling purposes only. Hose with or without nozzle shall not be fastened to any frame, post or mechanical device but shall be held in the hand. Revolving lawn sprinklers and other like devices may be used but must be approved by the superintendent and used during hours to be fixed by him. Hose shall not be used without a nozzle; the use of hose larger than ¾ inch in diameter or nozzle larger than ¼ inch will not be permitted. Street sprinkling must be confined to the area or street frontage paid for and shall not extend beyond the center of the street. Sprinkling will not be allowed between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m., and then the water must not be wasted. No sprinkling will be allowed during a fire.

8. The superintendent or other authorized agent of the company shall have access at all reasonable hours to the premises supplied, and see that these rules are observed, and to make any necessary examination of plumbing and water fixtures.

9. Water rents are due and payable in advance at the office of the Water company on the first day of January and July; if not paid within 30 days after they become due and notice thereof is given, the supply will be turned off and not turned on again until all back dues are paid. No deductions will be made for the time water was off, and one dollar will be charged for turning it on again.

10. The company reserves the right to set meters and charge meter rates whenever in its opinion the quantity of water used is excessive. If a consumer shall prefer to pay for water by meter measurement the company will, upon application, furnish and set a meter, charging therefo, the expense of setting and maintenance in addil tion to the rate for water. The company wil keep all meters in repair, and shall have access to the same at all reasonable hours. Bills for metered water will be rendered quarterly and must be paid within ten days thereafter. Water will not be furnished any consumer by meter for less than a minimum annual rental of ten ($10 00) dollars.

11. Any consumer wishing to discontinue the use of water on his premises must give notice at the office of the Water company, that the water may be turned off. The regular rate will be charged until such notice has been given.

12. No rebate from the rates will be allowed for partial use of water from wells, cisterns, etc. All fixtures for the supply of water for which the company has regular rates, must be paid for or disconnected from the service pipe.

13. All persons desiring to use water for building purposes must first make application at the office of the Water company stating the use to be made of the water and the quantity of work to be done, and having done so must pay the water rent in advance. Water ussd for building purposes must be discharged through a hose or pipe directly into the mortar bed or into barrels, and under no circumstances shall it be discharged upon the ground or into or through a trench.

14. The company shall not be required to furnish water for hydraulic elevators or motors unless they are supplied with indicators or meters which shall register the amount of water used.

15. The public fire hydrants as set forth in the franchise are to be used exclusively for extinguishing fires, for the necessary drill and practice of the fire dgpartment, and for flushing sewers; no person or persons except the members of the fire department, acting under orders of the proper authorities, and for the purpose above mentioned, shall be allowed to open any fire hydrant.

16. There shall be no waste of water either to prevent freezing or for any other purpose. Water will not be furnished when there are leaky pipes or fixtures. When such conditions are found to exist the supply will be shut off until repairs are made.

17. A constant flow of water will not be permitted under any circumstances except through a meter. In cases where water is discharged into tanks they must be kept water tight, and the supply pipes provided with ball cocks, which must be maintained in good order.

18. All house and other boilers connected with the service pipes must be provided with suitable check valves to prevent accidents from collapse or damage in case the water is suddenly drawn off from the main pipes.

19. It is expressly stipulated by the Water company that no claim shall be made against it or the city by reason of the breakage of any pipe or service cock, or by reason of any other interruption of the supply caused by the breakage of machinery or stoppage for necessary repairs, alterations or extensions.

20. The company shall not be required to supply water for the first faucet in any dwelling house whether for bath tub or other purpose unless dwelling house raths are paid.

21. Rates for water for purposes not herein specified shall be meter rates or rates fixed by approximation.

22. When necessary to turn off the water for non-payment of rates or for violation of any of the above rules, $1.00 will be charged for turning it on again

The foregoing regulations impose no restrictions which impair the rights of consumers to the use of all water necessary for the various purposes named in the contract, but the regulations are intended to prevent waste, and to protect the mutual interests of the consumers and the Water company.

These regulations and rates shall be in force from and after Jan'y 1, 1891.

SENATE REFUSES TO RECONSIDER THE VOTE ON THE 8-HOUR LAW.

Credentials of Daniel W. Voorhees and Henry C. Hansbrough, Senators from Indiana and North Dakota, Presented and Filed—House Copyright Bill Taken Up—Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill Taken Up in the House and Passed--Legislation Appropriation Up.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—In the senate Monday the credentials of D. V. Voorhees and H. C. Hansbrough as senators from Indiana and North Dakota respectively for the terms beginning March 4 next were presented and filed. A resolution was adopted calling on the president for correspondence in reference to the importation of certain United States products into Brazil. Mr. Harris' motion to lay on the table Mr. Blair's motion to reconsider the vote recommitting the bill providing for the adjustment of accounts of laborers, workmen and mechanics arising under the eight-hour law was disagreed to—yeas, 29; nays, 31. The question recurring on Mr. Blair's motion, to reconsider, Mr. Morrill called attention to some gross inconsistencies in the bill as it now stood, and said the whole principle of the bill was a very vicious example to be set to the states in relation to the eight-hour folly. The motion to reconsider was disagreed to—yeas, 28; nays, 29. So the bill stands recommitted to the committee on education and labor. The senate then proceeded to the consideration of the house copyright bill. Mr. Frye offered an amendment extending the principles of the bill to maps, charts, dramatic or musical composition, engravings, cuts, prints, chromos and lithographs. After a long discussion, in which many senators participated, the amendment was agreed to—yeas, 27; nays, 24. Discussion continued, but no action was had on the bill, and the senate adjourned.

Sundry Civil Bill in the House.

In the house at the conclusion of the reading of the journal, Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, moved that the house go into committee of the whole on the sundry civil appropriation bill. Mr. Grout, of Vermont, antagonized the motion and called attention to the fact that the day was to be devoted to business pertaining to the District of Columbia. The regular order was demanded by Mr. Buchanan, of New Jersey, and despite the protest of Mr. Springer, the question was put, and Mr. Cannon's motion to go into committee of the whole on the sundry civil appropriation bill was agreed to and Mr. Payson, of Illinois, took the chair. After some discussion an unimportant amendment was agreed to and the bill was passed. The legislative appropriation bill was then discussed, but without disposing of the bill the house adjourned.

CORPSE ON A SHAFT.

Dismembered Body of a Boy Discovered When the Machinery Began to Jar.

SEYMOUR, IND., Feb. 10.—Boone Havener, aged 15 years, employed at the woolen mills, met a horrible death. Young Havener was left alone in the picking room. In a few minutes an employe outside noticed a peculiar jarring of the machinery and ran to the engineer, who stopped the engine. When the two entered the room a terrible sight met their eyes. The boy had been caught in the belting and his body drawn to the line shaft, which whirled him around with lightning rapidity. Only a portion of his body and clothing was wrapped around the shaft. His limbs had been torn off and thrown over the room, one foot twenty feet from the shaft.

A Worked-Out Coal Mine Causes Thousands of Dollars' Worth of Damage.

ASHLAND, PA., Feb. 10.—It is estimated that during the past year damage aggregating $35,000 has been done to buildings in this town by the settling of the ground. Some have been wrecked so badly that they had to be torn down and rebuilt. The cause is supposed to be the removal of the pillars of coal in the tunnel colliery, which runs under the southern end of the town. The mine is said to be almost worked out.

A NEW DESTROYER.

A Rapid-Fire Cannon to Throw High Explosives Five Miles.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Louis Gathman, a maker of mill machinery, has on exhibition a cannon of his invention which, he says, is to be tested in the presence of United States army officers at Fort Sheridan within a fortnight, under instructions from the war department. The weapon is nine and one-half feet long, and is designed to be discharged in rapid succession, thousands of times, without becoming overheated, throwing shells three feet long, filled with dynamite, nitro-glycerine or any other high explosive, a distance of five miles, the projectile exploding by the concussion when it strikes the object. The chief novel feature is the use of liquified carbolic acid gas, delivered automatically along the entire length of the bore at the instant of discharge, not only as an absorbent of the heat generated, but as a "cooler" after the charge has left the gun. By another new device pneumatic pressure is produced with the use of powder.

How a Cigarette Smoker Blew Out His Brains.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 10.—Peter Johnson, 22 years old, committed suicide at the house of a friend in the presence of a 4-year-old child. He went into the kitchen, accompanied by the little child, and took a breech-loading rifle from a rack on the wall. He fished a shell from the pocket of a coat hanging by and loaded and cocked the gun. He then tied a rope to the trigger. Seating himself in a chair he put the muzzle of the gun in his mouth and pulled the rope. The charge of shot tore a frightful hole in his head, and his brains spattered the ceiling. Johnson was an inveterate cigarette smoker, and it is thought that his mind was affected. He was out of work and despondent.

THE OHIO LEGISLATURE.

Speaker Hysell Received a Letter from Ex-President Hayes Indorsing His School Bill—Important Bills Read.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 10.—Speaker Hysell has received the following letter indorsing his bill making a levy of one-twentieth of a mill for the Ohio university:

SPERGEL GROVE, FREMONT, Feb. 7, 1891.

MY DEAR SIR—All well informed friends of education in Ohio must, I think, rejoice as I do on the success of the State university bill by such a decided vote in the house. I heartily thank you and congratulate you. If the senate concurs it will soon place our "dear old state" high on the list of the best educational states. The amendment in the interest of industrial education is especially valuable. It lifts up all who work on the farm, in the shop and in the mine. No man trained to skilled labor will ever desist labor or the laborer. On the contrary, he will be for him and with him. With all good wishes, sincerely, RUTHERFORD B. HAYES.

Enough members had returned from their junket to Elmira to transact business at 4 p. m. Mr. Griffin offered a joint resolution in the house providing for the appointment of a joint committee to examine into the sanitary condition of the state house.

Bills Introduced in the Senate.

A Cheeky Priest.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 10.—Italian residents here recently began raising funds to build a church. Father Capitani, of Cleveland, hearing of the movement, came here and demanded that all the funds collected and the subscription books should be placed in his hands. Those having them refused to obey the mandate of the priest, informing him that they could attend to their own affairs without any interference, claiming that he would spend the money elsewhere. They assert that Capitani is opposed to an Italian church here, as a priest would be placed in charge and he would be deprived of the fees he now receives for coming here to marry parties.

A Despondent Young Man Shoots Himself.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 10.—Myron Manning, son of Rufus P. Manning, a prominent citizen, sent a bullet into his brain yesterday, while the family were in another portion of the house at breakfast. Surgeons pronounce the wound fatal. Manning is 20 years old, and has been despondent for several days, having been unable to secure employment.

CONDENSED OHIO NEWS.

The Jefferson county grand jury have completed their labors. They examined 188 witnesses, covering 53 cases, presented 30 bills and ignored 23.

Amos Mechling, of Lima, an oil pumper, was burned to death at his station. While lighting a fire the gas ignited, causing the oil tank to explode.

Fell Into a Ladle of Molten Metal.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 10.—Ed. Crist, a molder in the Superior Drill works, sustained terrible injuries. He had a fit and fell with his face in a ladle of molten metal. His face was burned to a crisp and the injuries are probably fatal.

GLADNESS REIGNS.

RESCUE OF MINERS IMPRISONED BY WATER FOUR DAYS.

The Three Men in the Grand Tunnel Shaft Taken Out Alive—They Were in the Cross Heading, at the Highest Point They Could Reach in the Mine, Just a Trifle More Than Six Feet Above the Elevation Reached by the Flood—A Tale of Terrible Suffering.

NANTICOKE, PA., Feb. 10.—There is great rejoicing in the little mining village of Grand Tunnel, across the Susquehanna river from this place. The doubt that has prevailed since last Wednesday over the fate of the three men who were caught in the mine by the on-rushing waters from an underground reservoir, is now removed, gladness reigns in the homes where gloom existed and the good news has made every miner's heart in the community leap for joy. William Cragle, John W. Riner and Michael Shelarski are alive. The first message between them and their rescuers passed over the flooded gangways early yesterday morning, the water then being down to such a point that men on rafts could float by the clogged brattice work and get over the level to the gangway on the other side. Back through the gloomy passageway came resounding the glad shouts of the rescuers: "The men are found! They are alive!" The shout was taken up by those at the pumps and sent up the slope to where others of the toilers were at work. The men at the bottom of the slope could not restrain themselves and many of them to wade and swim across the abyss. The work of reaching the imprisoned men was daringly accomplished by George Bendel, who, when he found his progress stopped by low timbers, dipped his raft under them, following by diving. As he went along the brattice he heard Riner's voice saying: "For God's sake hurry up, boys, and get us out of here; we are yet alive." This was the message that Bendel sent back to the other rescuers. He could not reach the men without going through the brattice, 100 feet, and wading in water two and three feet deep. When he found Riner, Cragle and Shelarski, they were up in the cross heading, perched on a legging, and at the highest point they could reach in the mine. This was just a trifle more than six feet above the elevation reached by the flood.

When They Found the Inclined Cut in the vein and climbed up its almost perpendicular passage they managed to obtain a piece of loose timber. This they placed across the opening of the tunnel, and after getting it safely lodged climbed upon it for a seat. There they sat on the timber scarcely three inches wide for over four days. Behind them was the immense body of coal held in place by a small piece of prop, and fearing to dislodge it the men dared not even rest against it. In a short time their supply of oil gave out and they were in total darkness. Riner, the most experienced of the men, was able to keep his head in their long imprisonment, but both Cragle and Schilling at times became crazed. Cragle imagined he saw a mine car and jumped into the water to ride to the slope with it. He was rescued and got back to the perch by Riner. Schilling was more easily managed. Wednesday night passed and Thursday came and then the men lost their account of time.

How They were Taken Out.

When the water was down enough to allow the men to be taken out they were lifted, one at a time, on the raft across the flooded gangway, their imprisonment making them too weak to risk the danger of the water. They reached the pumps safely, and were wrapped up in blankets, having first been given some milk in light quantities as nourishment. When Bendel, Jones and Bowen reached the men the latter clasped them about their necks and wept with joy at their rescue from a place which every one believed would prove a living tomb. The men said they had spent their time almost continuously in praying; that neither of them stopped a moment, but all were from the outside, and when they heard the first pounding against the brattice they began to call out where they were. The rescued men were almost exhausted from their 115 hours imprisonment, and will require care to bring them through. Their sufferings have been intense, but they were buoyed up by the hope of being rescued, and the outcrop workings being fairly well ventilated, they were able to secure enough pure air to keep them alive. They suffered very much for something to drink, quenching their thirst as best they could by pressing against the rib of the cross heading and licking the water as it dripped down the sides.

ST. MARY'S OIL FIELD.

About $50,000 Lost in a Few Days—Abandoned.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Feb. 10.—Ninety days ago the oil field about St. Mary's was all excitement, and big bonuses were paid for small parcels of land. Now the field has passed into insignificance. Eight wells were put down at a cost of $50,000, and of these six are dry holes and the other two small producers. Forty thousand dollars is known to have gone into dry holes. The Duncan well, which is now averaging not more than twenty barrels a day, started the excitement. After it six wells were put down and all came in dry. Then came the Little Gulch well, which is doing a scanty fifty barrels a day, with signs of a much smaller yield very soon. The experience of this field has been that of many others.

SHE IS A TERROR.

Mrs. McCabe, Who Shot Judge Stein, of Texas, Again at Large.

BROWNSVILLE, TEX., Feb. 10.—It is reported here that Mrs. McCabe, who murdered County Judge Stein, of Hidalgo, had escaped from jail at Matamoros, where she was awaiting sentence. It is supposed she was assisted by Mexican officials or released through the bribery of her jailer. Mrs. McCabe is very beautiful and the wife of an ex-judge of Hidalgo county. She shot Judge Stein at a social gathering on the Mexican side and drove off the officers who attempted to arrest her. She had many sympathizers.

THE INDIAN POW POW.

Senator Dawes Told the Indians How the Laws were Enacted.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The Sioux Indian delegation had a conference with Commissioner Morgan at the Indian bureau yesterday. The commissioner made a few brief remarks to the delegation, in which he promised to visit their agencies and homes next spring. He then introduced Senator Dawes, of Massachusetts, who told the Indians how the Indian laws were enacted; how slight mistakes and omissions could be made. He told them that if congress had failed to enact laws which were promised he would be glad to have them mentioned. He said that the Sioux nation would be the greatest tribe on earth if they would co-operate with the government in spending the $3,000,000 they would soon receive. Mad Bear said they wanted civil agents and accused the military authorities of inciting trouble among the Indians, rather than suppressing it, because they were anxious to be constantly kept before the eyes of the public. The other speakers were John Grass, Wizi, One to Play With, Little No Heart and White Ghost.

PECULIAR EQUINE DISEASE.

Three Valuable Horses Die on a Stock Farm Near Canonsburg.

CANONSBURG, PA., Feb. 10.—C. E. Rumsey, who owns and runs a stock farm near Vanemans station, lost three valuable horses which died suddenly the latter part of last week from a peculiar disease. It is a new disease here. Veterinary surgeons are at sea as to how to treat it. Much alarm is manifested among the farmers residing in the vicinity of the Rumsey farm for fear the disease may become an epidemic.

For the Relief of Jewish Immigrants.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The trustees of the Baron De Hirsch fund met yesterday, signed the trust deed prepared by the baron and decided to draw on the baron March 1 for the $2,500,000 constituting the fund and invest it in this country, the income to be used in the relief and education of destitute Jewish immigrants and their children. The money is not to be given outright to the beneficiaries, but loaned without interest and with no security except notes of hand.

Surplus Gradually Creeping Up.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The surplus in the treasury is gradually creeping up and at the end of business yesterday was $80,000,000. As this will be required to meet pension payments the latter part of this month and the first of next month, no bonds in addition to these now being daily purchased—4 1-2 per cent.—will be bought.

One More Victim of the Johnstown Flood.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., Feb. 10.—The badly decomposed body of a woman, a flood victim, was found at Conemaugh furnace yesterday.

"THEY'RE AFTER THEM."

Probability That Washington C. H. Will Secure Important Car Shops.

WASHINGTON C. H., O., Feb. 10.—It is now thought that the Ohio Southern car shops will be removed from Springfield, O., to this city. Arrangements have been almost perfected by which the Ohio Southern and Dayton, Ft. Wayne and Chicago roads are to conduct their freight traffic business jointly, and this will require the erection of joint shops. This being the only suitable point on the two lines for the erection of joint shops and transfers, it is confidently believed that the final decision will be to locate them here. The Ohio Southern shops employ about 250 hands, and the combined shops would furnish employment for about 350 men. Washington C. H. is after them."

TABLEWARE COMBINE.

Five Leading Manufacturers Form a Syndicate.

FINDLAY, O., Feb. 10.—Five table glassware houses in Pittsburg, one in Wheeling, one in Fostoria and one in Findlay, joined yesterday in an application for a charter for a new trust combination to be known as the United States company, with a capital of $1,000,000, though it is said larger sums are involved. This is the beginning of a combine which will soon embrace all table glassware factories in the country.

Temperance Leader Assaulted and Beaten.

TIFFIN, O., Feb. 10.—The feeling concerning the action of the law and order element in enforcing the laws compelling the closing of saloons on Sunday is growing in intensity. Sunday night W. L. Myers, a leader in the temperance movement, entered the back door of the Commercial house saloon and in response to an inquiry of the proprietor, W. C. Hawkins, concerning his business, said he just wanted to satisfy himself that the place was open. Hawkins then assaulted him and beat him up terribly. Yesterday Myers received a notice embellished with the usual skull and cross bones, warning him to either desist from meddling in other people's business or leave the city at once.

The Conflict of '92.

TOPEKA, KAN., Feb. 10.—W. F. Rightmire, secretary of the National Citizens' Industrial alliance, has issued a call for a general conference of reformers to meet in Cincinnati, on May 19, 1891, to adopt a platform and make such arrangements for the conflict of 1892 as the conference may deem fitting. This call is in direct opposition to the wishes of J. D. Holden, of Emporia, president of the National Citizens' alliance.

Corpse Eaten by a Cat.

CLINTONVILLE, WIS., Feb. 10.—Chas. Knack, of Leopolis, shot and killed his wife and himself last week. The bodies were not found until yesterday. The face of Mrs. Knack had been partly eaten off by a cat which was in the room. Knack and his wife did not live agreeably together and it is supposed the deed was done during a quarrel. They were both advanced in years.

A Commercial Congress.

TOPEKA, KAN., Feb. 10.—The senate yesterday adopted by a unanimous vote the concurrent resolution introduced by Senator Kelly; providing for a commercial congress to consider the interest of the agricultural west. The resolution provides that the delegates from Kansas shall consist of four senators and five representatives.

ADVICES FROM ZANZIBAR.

ARABS RESUMING THE OPEN TRAFFIC IN SLAVES.

Baron Wissman Ascertained That the English, Professedly Friendly, Were Spreading False Reports Among the Native Tribes as to the Power and Intentions of the Germans—Vigorous Measures Used to Bring Things Back to Their Standard.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Late advices from Zanzibar show that there is no foundation for the report that Commander Wissmann's mind had become affected. Baron Wissmann, on his return to the German east coast of Africa, found things in a deplorable condition and most of what he had accomplished undone. The natives were insolent and the Arabs were resuming the open traffic in slaves. He ascertained that the English, while professedly friendly, were spreading false reports among the native tribes as to the power and the intentions of the Germans, and that a widespread impression prevailed that Germany was simply an appendage of Great Britain.

Wissmann Undertook Vigorous Measures to bring things back to their former standard. He put several of the natives to death who were captured in the act of selling slaves, and he rebuked the insolence of the native chiefs by compelling them to come before him, and again in the most submissive manner declare their allegiance to Germany. He is now engaged in making war upon some tribes that still defy the German authority. The reports of his insanity he attributes to English officials who are anxious to see him removed from the coast in order that they may have some easier man to deal with.

THE RECIPROCITY TREATY

Between the United States and Brazil Has Aroused Uneasiness in London.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The reciprocity treaty between the United States and Brazil has aroused much uneasiness in trading circles here, especially as, by the government's own admission, there is no obligation on Brazil to accord similar favors to England. English merchants have well established houses at Rio de Janeiro and other Brazilian cities and the British trade with the republic is very valuable. It is feared that much of this will be lost to England. The course of the Brazilian government in favor of American trade is attributed to the hesitation shown in Europe to recognize the republic and to the fact that Dom Pedro, the exiled emperor, is connected by the ties of kindred with the ruling house of England and Germany, the last named country, especially, having put off recognition until recently.

SOME VALENTINE TALK.

TENDER MISSIVES RECEIVED AND SENT BY PUBLIC MEN.

Our Correspondent Interviews Messrs. Cleveland, Depew, Ingersoll, Sage, Gould, D. O. Mills and McAllister—Not All Have Had Valentine Experiences.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—In all the carefully written biographies of the famous men of history no mention is ever made of their first valentines. That most of them undoubtedly did send or receive at least one of these sentimental missives is at least a reasonable supposition, but after a somewhat extended search through the published lives of nearly all the great men who have gone, I have been unable to find a single allusion to any valentine experience. Now any young lady who has a spark of romance in her soul will agree that this is a most unfortunate omission, and that the St. Valentine's Day experiences of the great men of today might not be similarly lost to posterity I recently called on all the famous men I could reach, in order that I might record the story of their first 'valentines for the benefit of future historians.

Ex-President Cleveland was the first on the list that I had prepared. Mr. Cleveland was deep in the intricacies of some law case when I called, but he interrupted his labors without a moment's hesitation to receive me. The results of my inquiries were not, however, as fruitful as might have been hoped.

"My first valentine?" said the ex-president, repeating my question, while a smile spread over his features. "That's a queer sort of a question, and I guess you will have to go to some younger man for valentine experiences. It's a great many years now since I sent a valentine, if I ever sent any at all, and I've forgotten all about them. You must remember that I am 54 years old, and since the period when most men's valentine days are naturally supposed to come I've had more or less to think of. Consequently I am afraid that I will not be able to give you any information on the subject."

Chauncey M. Depew, according to his own account, came in for St. Valentine attentions at a very early date.

"Bless your heart!" he said to me when I asked him about his first offering, "I couldn't tell you if I should think for a week. It seems to me that valentines have always played a prominent part in my existence, and I guess I got my first before I was able to read. A little later on, when my accomplishments had grown somewhat, I remember they took on a tender tone, and this sentimental era in my valentine experience continued until I got married.

"After that they came as regularly as before, but the contents were different. They were either of a practical turn, giving me lots of good advice, or they were harmless bits of humor or satire sent by friends. And now," and Mr. Depew's face was temporarily clouded with the memory of his trials in this direction, "now they come even more numerously than before, but the senders are either cranks, who take the opportunity to work off some crazy composition on me, or malicious persons who jump at the chance to send me anonymously a lot of disagreeable stuff. The latter comes from people who, if they were a little less cowardly, would throw vitriol in your face or shoot you with an air gun. But as they can't summon up sufficient courage to do that, they hide behind the privilege of St. Valentine's Day to shoot their shafts anonymously.

"However, that's one of the unpleasant features of the day, and one I am glad to say that didn't exist when I was a young man. We only celebrated the agreeable feature of the day by sending anonymously grateful little compliments in such a way that the sender could easily be traced. We didn't have the elaborated affairs in those days that you have now, at least not in the country where I lived. All our valentines were written. We would get some artistically engraved cards and inscribe on them some pretty sentiment in pen and ink. We would either an give appropriate quotation from a favorite author or write something original, and somehow it seems to me that these valentines meant more than the expensive works of art that are sent today. But that may only seem to me because I am not as young as I used to be in those days. And then I don't send any more today, which makes all the difference in the world."

One would suppose "Bob" Ingersoll would receive a bushel basket of valentines every year. But Mr. Ingersoll assured me with a perfectly straight face that he had never received or read a valentine in his life.

"Not even when you were young, colonel?" I asked somewhat doubtfully.

"No, sir, not even when I was young," replied the colonel very positively. "Those were mighty poor times for valentines, when I was young, at least where I lived in the west. You couldn't drop your little valentine in the slot and let the letter carrier do the rest. Houses were twenty-five or fifty miles apart, and if you had been filled with a desire to send your best girl or some other fellow's best girl a valentine it would have involved a loss of a day or perhaps two days. And even then the reception at the other end would have been very doubtful. I don't know exactly what would have been the feelings of the recipient of the valentine offering, but I feel pretty certain that it wouldn't have advanced your chances for an early engagement. The old people would have looked with extreme suspicion on any valentine performance, and it would have required some effort to explain it away. So you see it is perfectly natural that I should never have sent or received a valentine, even during the days when I might naturally have been supposed to be addicted to the practice, and afterward the fever never touched me."

Russell Sage, the man who is popularly supposed to have more millions in ready cash locked away for profitable investment in call loans than any other man in the country, seemed very much tickled when I asked him about his first valentine.

"Valentines? My first valentine? Well, well, well!" And the old gentleman gave one of his quiet, secretive chuckles while he fondly stroked the folds of his $1.25 umbrella. "I never had time for valentines; too much work to do. And then I never was sentimental," he continued, with another chuckle. "Never. You want to hunt up some of the romantic fellows. There are lots of them around, you know."

"I suppose you receive a valentine occasionally, at any rate, Mr. Sage?"

"Oh yes, I get 'em, lots of 'em," and this time the old gentleman almost laughed outright. "You can't escape 'em, and some of them are beauties—friends of mine, you know, who want to show me how much they think of me. Maybe I'll let you see my valentine mail some day—some very fine things in it."

Jay Gould, like his friend Mr. Sage, has a heavy St. Valentine's Day mail, in which some very choice bits of satire and malediction reach him. And also, like Mr. Sage, he has never had time, according to his own statement, to send any valentines himself. There is a story, unconfirmed by Mr. Gould himself though, that the railroad king received a valentine in his early days which disgusted him so thoroughly with the practice as to cure him of any propensity to offer up a sacrifice on St. Valentine's altar.

George Gould, who is rapidly becoming as famous in the financial world as his father, still has a very clear recollection of the time when the average young man sent valentines, but when I asked him for his experience he assured me that he had never indulged in the habit.

"That's always been rather out of my line," he added. "If there is in existence a valentine that I sent I should like to see it very much. I do not remember even as a boy having ever paid any attention to the day, and it's hardly to be supposed that I'll take it up now."

D. O. Mills, the California millionaire, looked puzzled when he tried to think of his first valentine, but finally remarked that he couldn't remember anything about it.

"People sent offerings in honor of St. Valentine's Day in my time," he said, "and I may have done as the rest, but I really can't say whether I did or not."

Ward McAllister, creator and chief shepherd of the immortal Four Hundred, delivered his first valentine in a most romantic manner. "It occurred just forty-one years ago," said the society king in speaking of the event. "I had returned to my home in Savannah to study law. From time immemorial the people down there have given valentine parties on St. Valentine's eve, and a very pretty social observance it is, one that might very profitably be followed in the north. I received an invitation to attend one of these parties, and of course accepted. When I reached the house a basketful of sealed envelopes was handed to me, and I was told to select one at random.

"When I opened the envelope I found the name of a very beautiful young lady whom I had the right to claim as a partner for the evening. But in order to exercise this right I had first to present her with a bouquet of flowers on my bended knee in the public ballroom, and recite a piece of poetry appropriate to St. Valentine's Day. It was a pretty embarrassing situation, but as all the other young fellows in the house had to do the same thing I plunged down boldly when my turn came, holding the bouquet in my outstretched hand, and looking deep down into the blue eyes of the charming maiden before whom I kneeled, I recited the following poem, which I had committed to memory for the occasion:

These flowers, dear lady, unto thee I bring,
With hopes as timid as the dawning spring,
Which oft repelled by many a chilling blast,
Still trusts its offering may succeed at last.

Receive, thou emblem of the rosy spring,
Charmer of life, of every earthly thing,
These flowers which, lovely as the tints of morn,
Yet ne'er can hope thy beauty to adorn.

Oh, may they plead for one who never knew,
Perfection's image till he met with you!
Oh, may their fragrance to thy heart convey,
How much he would but does not dare to say!

"I always thought that this poetry was original with me," added Mr. McAllister, "but I see that it is claimed by a very famous woman as her composition, and as I am not positive as to my authorship I yield the honor without a protest. But it is very pretty, and as it formed the subject of my first valentine I do not think I shall ever forget it."

On the occasion of Mrs. James Brown Potter's debut as an amateur actress, on St. Valentine's eve several years ago Mr. McAllister recited the poem again, addressing himself to the famous beauty.

PAUL LATZKE.

A movement is on foot for a uniform rate of legal interest in the six states of Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Colorado and the two Dakotas. If the movement is successful it will prove a great convenience to the group of states named, and will enable citizens to avoid much tedious delay and litigation.

The doctors have sent out a general warning to the public against the biting of finger nails. In the deposit accumulating under the nails exists a swarm of death dealing things, which includes thirty kinds of micrococi, eighteen sorts of bacilli, and several sarcenæ and mold spores.

Jules Simon, the venerable French author, writes in a manner peculiar to himself. Lying flat on his back he holds a tablet of paper above him and covers it with chirography that is a marvel of neatness. It is as easy to read as a printed page.

Good news sometimes kills. It has caused the death of Mrs. Crofft, of Scott county, Ky. On receiving notice that an uncle in Texas, recently deceased, had left her 1,280 acres of land, she fell down in a faint and soon afterward expired.

REED IN THE LEAD.

Appointed to the District Judgeship to Be Made This Week.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The impression prevails at the capitol that a district Judge for Western Pennsylvania will not be appointed until the last week. The story that President Harrison was holding the matter over on account of the Reiter matter, is pronounced ridiculous. There is no change in the situation, and Reed is still in the lead. Leeds, whom Senator Quay is pushing for the marshalship of the eastern district, is thought to have a good chance.

Brice After Railroads.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 10.—It developed yesterday that the visit of United States Senator Brice on Saturday was directly connected with the purchase of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago railroad by the Lake Erie and Western. Senator Brice and General Manager Bradbury have gone to Louisville, where they are in consultation with President Breyfogle, and it is believed that if the deal is not consummated on this trip that it will be shortly. The deal will involve several million dollars.

He Did Not Steal.

MONMOUTH, ILL., Feb. 10.—Fifteen years ago $100 disappeared from the cash box of the Second National bank, of Monmouth, and a customer, now dead, was suspected of taking it. Saturday night, in breaking up an old counter, the lost bank note was found in a mouse's nest, and the cloud on the dead man if lifted. The bill, which was issued by a Pittsburg (Pa.) national bank, is not badly mutilated, and can be readily redeemed.

Persecuted Jews of Russia.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The signers of the memorial to the Russian czar in behalf of the persecuted Jews of Russia are indignant because the Russian minister to England, Baron De Staale, snubbed Mayor Savory. There is good authority for stating that the memorial has not injured, but has rather helped the Russian Jews. It was forwarded to the czar through Gen. De Richter, who is charged with the reception of petitions addressed to the autocrat, and whose duty it is to make a summary of such memorials for the czar's personal perusal.

Guests of the Duke of Fife.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The Prince of Wales, Lord Salisbury and Mr. Gladstone dined together yesterday as guests of the Duke of Fife, son-in-law of the Prince of Wales.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT.

Three Miles of Rail Spikes Torn Up by a Car Wheel.

WABASH, IND., Feb. 10.—One of the most peculiar accidents in the annals of railroad history happened near Disko, on the Chicago and Erie road. As a Wabash passenger train left the station a broken piece from one of the coach wheels threw two wheels from the track, but the accident was not discovered until the train had gone three miles. These wheels had cut off the heads of nearly all the spikes in the three miles of track, and a freight train following was thrown from the track and eight cars demolished. It was impossible to get the wrecking train from Huntington to the scene of the accident until all that three miles of track had been respiked. For a wonder not a person was injured.

Sensational Church Trial.

MATAWAN, N. J., Feb. 10.—A sensational church trial began to-day at Keyport. Deacon John W. Tice, of the Jacksonville Methodist church, is being tried on a number of charges of improper conduct. Friends of the accused say the charges are brought against Deacon Tice by members of the church through malice. Tice is over 70 years old and is a member of the same church from which the Rev. Robert Chew was deposed a short time ago for conduct unbecoming a christian.

Buried in Her Bridal Robe.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 10.—Miss Lydia Krichbaum was buried here in the robe which she had prepared while expecting to be a happy bride. Her affianced, Peter A. Eyler, of Warren, had presented her with a diamond engagement ring, and when she realized that death was imminent she requested that it be left on her hand until just before the casket was closed, when it should be taken off and presented to Miss Anna Eyler, sister of her affianced husband, residing in Meadville. Her wishes were complied with.

A Young Wife Dissatisfied.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 10.—After less than a month of married life Mrs. Emma Matthews, daughter of a well-to-do farmer, left her husband, Charles Matthews, and declined to continue the relationship, refusing to give any reason. The husband has made application for divorce and the wife will ask that it be refused and she be given a decree. Matthews lives near here, sustains a good reputation and the differences between the couple are wrapped in mystery.

What will the Crowned Heads Say?

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 10.—Maj. Pond, Henry M. Stanley's manager, announced here that Stanley had decided to give all the gifts which he has received from the crowned heads of Europe and admirers to Gen. Booth, of the Salvation Army, for the cause of helping the poor in London. These gifts are valued at nearly $500,000. They consist of pearls of rare value, gold cups and kindred articles. A number of them were received from Queen Victoria.

LIGHT AND AIRY.

The Bacillus.

A merry little bacillus, she frolicked in the sun,
She said: "I am so useless! There's nothing I have done.
I wish I could do something for others ere I die,
There are lots of folks unselfish—then why not I?"

This merry little bacillus decided for to die
To give her life for science, and not to reason why.
So in a vat of glycerine she plunged—this merry nymph,
And in the twinkling of an eye was changed to healing lymph.

This merry little bacillus was the leader of the band
Who 're dying now for science in the nappy Fatherland;
They all are most unselfish, and quite rejoiced to die—
These very merry jelly-jolly bacilli!

Too Much.

"Captain, your landlord has complained to me that you have lived now eleven months in his house and yet have not paid him a cent of rent. Is this true?"

"Yes, general; but then you have to take into consideration that all that time I have bought everything that I needed of him—coffee, sugar, tea, cognac, cheese, tobacco and cigars. I have bought of no one else."

"And have you paid him for all these things?"

"Why, no, general; that would really be asking too much!"—Fliegende Blatter.

A Dangerous Man.

Ticks—Indeed?

Wickles—Yes, I couldn't work for him any longer. I found out he was an incendiary.

Ticks—An incendiary! That's a very grave charge.

Wickles—I know it, but I can prove it.

Ticks—How?

Wickles—He has just fired me.—Boston Courier.

Then and Now.

There was a time in days gone by,
When collar buttons wern't forthcoming,
When husbands used quite weighty words
And searched the house from roof to plumbing.

But now your collar button's safe;
You always know just where to spot it;
And when it's missing from its place
You feel serene—your wife has got it.

A Good Record.—"I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for ten years," says druggist E. B. Legg, of Vail, Ia., "and have always warranted it and never had a bottle returned. It will cure a severe cold in less time than other treatment. 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by Morganthaler & Heister.

The senior proprietor of this paper has been subject to frequent colds for some years, which were sure to lay him up if not doctored at once. He finds that Chambelain's Cough remedy is reliable. It opens the secretions, relieves the lungs and restores the system to a healthy condition. If freely used as soon as the cold is contracted, and before it has become settled in the system, it greatly lessens the attack and often cures in a single day what would otherwise havs been a severe cold.—Northwestern Hotel Reporter, Des Moines, Ia. 50 cent bottles for sale by Morganthaler & Heister.

A Blessing to Humanity.

This is what N. H. Andrews, a prominent citizen of Springfield, O., says: "It affords me great pleasure to assure my friends that I have received both immediate and permanent relief of throat, bronchial and asthmatic trouble in the use of Dr. Acker's English Remedy. It is certainly a good honest medicine and a blessing to humanity." The above preparation we sell on a positive guarantee; it has given better satisfaction than any other remedy we have ever sold. J. About Valentines.

The valentine is with us again. These symbolic offerings at the shrine of love continue to be bought and sent, and each year brings new and attractive ideas, many of which are distinctly novel and original, while in the higher and more artistic efforts of the manufacturers there is a marked tendency toward more dainty embodiments and correct taste in expression.

The line displayed this season by the Independent Company is the cream of the market. The efforts are more artistic, the designs more beautiful, the variety larger, and the prices cheaper than ever before.
